6 Attorney for DENNIS FUGNETTI

7 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
8 CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

9 DENNIS FUGNETTI,

10 Plaintiff,

11 v.

12 BIRD B GONE, INC.; and DOES 1-10,
13 inclusive,

14 Defendant.

Case No.: 8:19-cv-00199-AG-JDE

15 OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANT'S
MOTION TO DISMISS

16 Concurrently Filed:

17 1. Declaration of Ryan E. Carreon

1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 Plaintiff Dennis Fugnetti is a professional photographer who created an
 3 original photograph of a pigeon landing with its wings expanded (“Flying Pigeon
 4 Image”). Complaint ¶¶8-9. Defendant Bird B Gone Inc. (“Defendant”)
 5 manufactures and sells various bird and pest deterrent products including a set of 6 stainless steel bird spikes which can be placed on roofs, signage, and other surfaces
 7 as a deterrent to prevent birds from landing. Complaint ¶¶11-13.

8 In the mid 90s Defendant engaged Fugnetti to perform graphic design work 9 on a project-by-project basis as an independent contractor. Complaint ¶¶14-15. As 10 part of his work for Defendant, Fugnetti incorporated his Flying Pigeon Image into 11 a series of sales and educational materials explaining Defendant’s products that 12 Defendant typically distributed at tradeshows and seminars. Complaint ¶16.

13 In 2002 or 2003, Defendant ended its relationship with Fugnetti and took its 14 graphic design work in house. Complaint ¶17. In May of 2017, Fugnetti received a 15 series of email from Defendant stating that Defendant had continued to use the 16 Flying Pigeon Image and stating that Defendant was seeking information so that it
 17 could apply for a copyright registration. Complaint ¶¶20-26. Fugnetti subsequently 18 discovered that his Flying Pigeon Image had been used on numerous of Defendant’s
 19 products. Complaint ¶¶37-38.

20 Unbeknownst to Fugnetti, on December 3, 2003, Defendant applied for a 21 trademark for the Flying Pigeon Image and began incorporating the Flying Pigeon
 22 Image into a wide variety of product packages and labels. Complaint ¶¶48-50. Not 23 only was this subsequent use of the Flying Pigeon Image done without Fugnetti’s 24 knowledge or permission, but the subsequent unauthorized use was also outside the 25 scope of the materials created by Fugnetti during his engagement with Defendant.
 26 Complaint ¶¶56-58.

27 On October 23, 2018, Fugnetti submitted a copyright application and deposit
 28 materials for the Flying Pigeon Image to the United States Copyright Office.

1 Declaration of Ryan E. Carreon (“Carreon Decl.”) ¶3. On January 31, 2019,
 2 Fugnetti initiated this lawsuit against Defendant. Carreon Decl. ¶4.

3 On March 4, 2019, a law clerk at Defendant’s counsel’s office email
 4 Plaintiff’s counsel to request that Fugnetti voluntarily dismiss his Complaint¹ due to 5 the recent Supreme Court decision Fourth Estate Pub. Ben. Corp. v. Wall-
6 Street.com, LLC, 139 S. Ct. 881 (2019). Carreon Decl. ¶7. Fourth Estate held that a 7 prospective plaintiff in a copyright infringement action needed to obtain a decision
 8 from the Copyright Office either accepting or rejecting the application before
 9 commencing suit, and subsequently overruled existing Ninth Circuit precedent
 10 holding that a submitted application was sufficient.

11 On March 28, 2019, counsel for the parties met and conferred by telephone.
 12 Plaintiff’s counsel explained that Fugnetti had applied for an expedited examination 13 for his pending application and that the registration would be processed and a 14 certificate issued imminently. Carreon Decl. ¶9. Plaintiff’s counsel also stated that 15 even if the application were rejected, the Copyright Act allowed Fugnetti to proceed
 16 with the lawsuit once a decision on the application had been made. Carreon Decl.
 17 ¶10.

18 In a subsequent email exchange, Defendant’s counsel stated that even if a 19 certificate were to be issued imminently, Defendant would still be filing its Motion
 20 to Dismiss. Carreon Decl. ¶11.

21 On April 5, 2019, Defendant filed the instant Motion. On April 9, 2019,
 22 Fugnetti received correspondence from the Copyright Office stating that the Flying 23 Pigeon Image registration had been accepted under certificate Vau001349636 and 24 that he would be receiving a physical registration certificate in the mail shortly.

25

26 ¹ In its Motion and the attached Declaration of Robert D. Fish, Defendant characterizes 27 Fugnetti’s decision not to dismiss his Complaint in light of Fourth Estate as 28 “unreasonable.” Curiously, Defendant’s Motion selectively omits relevant portions of the correspondence between counsel, including Plaintiff’s counsel’s explanation as to why dismissal would be moot. The full correspondence is attached as Exhibit B to the Declaration of Ryan E. Carreon.

1 Carreon Decl. ¶13. Thereafter, the digital records available on the Copyright Office
 2 website were updated to reflect Fugnetti's perfected copyright registration showing
 3 an effective registration date of October 23, 2018 for the Flying Pigeon Image.
 4 Carreon Decl. ¶14, Exhibit A.

5 That same day, Plaintiff's counsel informed Defendant's counsel of the 6 issuance of a perfected copyright registration and requested that Defendant
 7 withdraw its Motion to Dismiss. Carreon Decl. ¶16. Defendant's counsel stated
 8 that Defendant would not be withdrawing its Motion. Carreon Decl. ¶17.

9 As stated more fully below, Defendant's Motion to Dismiss is moot now that 10 Fugnetti has received a perfected certificate of registration. The registration
 11 requirement is not jurisdictional in nature and therefore this Court did not and does 12 not lack subject matter jurisdiction over Fugnetti's Complaint. Finally, Fugnetti's 13 Complaint plausibly alleges a claim for copyright infringement. Therefore, 14 Defendant's Motion to Dismiss must be denied.

15 II. DEFENDANT'S MOTION IS MOOT BECAUSE FUGNETTI HAS 16 RECEIVED A PERFECTED CERTIFICATE OF REGISTRATION

17 Defendant's argument that Fugnetti has not complied with the registration
 18 requirement of 17 U.S.C. §411(a) is moot because Fugnetti has obtained a perfected 19 copyright certificate with an effective date of October 23, 2019. Furthermore, as 20 registration is neither a prerequisite to copyright protection or a requirement for 21 subject matter jurisdiction, the Copyright Office's delay in issuing the certificate 22 does not preclude this matter from going forward.

23 a. Prior to Fourth Estate, The Ninth Circuit embraced the “application” 24 approach to copyright infringement suits.

25 Under the Copyright Act of 1976 (“Copyright Act”) copyright protection 26 attaches to “original works of authorship” as soon as they are “fixed in any tangible 27 medium of expression.” 17 U.S.C. §102(a). An author gains “exclusive rights” in 28 her work immediately upon the work’s creation, including rights of reproduction, distribution, and display. See §106; Eldred v. Ashcroft, 537 U. S. 186, 195 (2003)

1 (“[F]ederal copyright protection . . . run[s] from the work’s creation.”). Before 2 pursuing an infringement claim in court, a copyright claimant generally must 3 comply with 17 U.S.C. §411(a)’s requirement that “registration of the copyright
 4 claim has been made.” 17 U.S.C. §411(a).

5 As Defendant correctly points out, Fugnetti alleges in his Complaint that the 6 Flying Bird Image is “registered” in accordance with the statutory prerequisite to 7 filing an infringement suit. Complaint ¶10. Prior to filing the Complaint, on 8 October 23, 2018, Fugnetti properly submitted the registration application, deposit
 9 copy, and required fee to the United States Copyright Office. At the time Fugnetti
 10 filed his Complaint on January 31, 2019, the Ninth Circuit had expressly adopted 11 the “application” approach holding that a copyrighted work was “registered” under 12 §411(a) upon the Copyright Office’s receipt of a submitted application. See 13 Cosmetic Ideas, Inc. v. IAC/InteractiveCorp, 606 F.3d 612, 621 (9th Cir.
 14 2010)(“We therefore hold that receipt by the Copyright Office of a complete 15 application satisfies the registration requirement of § 411(a).”) Therefore, at the 16 time the Complaint was filed, Fugnetti had “registered” the Flying Pigeon Image, as 17 the term had been interpreted by binding Ninth Circuit law.

18 On March 4, 2019, the Supreme Court rejected the “application” approach 19 holding that § 411(a) focused “not on the claimant’s act of applying for registration,
 20 but on action by the Copyright Office—namely, its registration or refusal to register
 21 a copyright claim.” Fourth Estate Pub. Ben. Corp. v. Wall-Street.com, LLC, 139 S.
 22 Ct. 881 (2019).

23 Subsequently, on April 9, 2019, the Copyright Office informed Fugnetti that 24 the Flying Pigeon Image registration had been accepted under certificate
 25 Vau001349636 with an effective registration date of October 23, 2018. Carreon
 26 Decl. ¶14, Exhibit A.

27 ///
 28 ///

b. The Copyright Act's registration requirement is not jurisdictional in nature, and Fugnetti may properly proceed having received a perfected registration certificate.

Contrary to Defendant’s assertion, the registration requirement is not jurisdictional in nature, and therefore the Copyright Office’s delay in issuing a perfected registration certificate does not deprive this Court of subject matter jurisdiction over Fugnetti’s claim. See Reed Elsevier, Inc. v. Muchnick, 559 U.S. 154, 160-61 (2010) (holding that a copyright holder’s failure to comply with § 411(a)’s registration requirement does not restrict a federal court’s subject-matter jurisdiction over infringement claims involving unregistered works.). In Reed Elsevier, the Supreme Court held that the Copyright Act’s requirement that rights holders register their works before suing for copyright infringement was not a jurisdictional limitation, in part because the registration requirement does not “clearly state[]” that it is jurisdictional and therefore should not be treated as such. Id. 163-66; see also 17 U.S.C. § 411(a).

15 Although section 411(a) of the Copyright Act provides that registration is 16 necessary before an infringement action may be instituted, the Ninth Circuit and its 17 district courts, have held that revised copyright applications relate back, curing any 18 jurisdictional obstacles caused by deficient registration. Roth Greeting Cards v.
19 United Card Co., 429 F.2d 1106, 1109 (9th Cir. 1970) (copyright application relates 20 back to date of filing of original application); Co-Opportunities, Inc. v. National 21 Broadcasting Co., 510 F.Supp. 43, 49 (N.D. Cal. 1981) (application relates back to 22 date of filing complaint); Meta-Film Assoc., Inc. v. MCA, Inc., 586 F.Supp. 1346, 23 1351–52 (C.D. Cal. 1984) (follows Co-Opportunities). Indeed, “[w]here plaintiff
24 has obtained a certificate of registration after the complaint was filed but before a 25 hearing on a motion to dismiss or for a preliminary injunction, most courts permit
26 the suit to continue.” 5 Patry on Copyright § 17:84 (collecting cases); see also RDF
27 Media Ltd. v. Fox Broadcasting Co., 372 F. Supp. 2d 556, 562 (C.D. Cal. 2005)
28 (motion to dismiss denied as moot where delayed copyright application

1 subsequently granted); Positive Black Talk Inc. v. Cash Money Records, Inc., 394
 2 F.3d 357, 365–367 (5th Cir. 2004) (“we find that the jurisdictional defect was cured
 3 when the Copyright Office received PBT’s application, deposit, and fee … after 4 PBT filed suit”); Walton v. U.S., 80 Fed. Cl. 251 (2008).

5 The Copyright Office recently issued a perfected registration certificate to 6 Fugnetti with an effective registration date of October 23, 2018. Carreon Decl. ¶14,
 7 Exhibit A. Because copyright registration is not a jurisdictional issue, this Court
 8 was not deprived of subject matter jurisdiction when Fugnetti filed his Complaint
 9 despite the Copyright Office’s delay in issuing the perfected registration certificate.
 10 Rather, now that the Copyright Office has issued a perfected registration certificate, 11 Fugnetti is in full compliance with § 411(a) and the recent Fourth Estate opinion.
 12 Defendant’s Motion is therefore moot and should be denied.

13 III. FUGNETTI HAS SUFFICIENTLY STATED A CLAIM FOR 14 COPYRIGHT INFRINGEMENT

15 Defendant contends that Fugnetti lack standing and has failed to properly 16 state a claim for copyright infringement. However, not only does Fugnetti have 17 standing to assert his claim as the owner of the Flying Pigeon Image, he has also 18 plausibly alleged that Defendant has committed copyright infringement.

19 a. Fugnetti has standing to assert his copyright infringement claim.

20 It is well settled that unless a plaintiff has standing, a federal district court
 21 lacks subject matter jurisdiction to address the merits of the case. The key question 22 is whether the plaintiff has "alleged such a personal stake in the outcome of the 23 controversy" as to warrant federal court jurisdiction. Baker v. Carr, 369 U.S. 186, 24 204 (1962).

25 The "irreducible constitutional minimum of standing contains three 26 elements": "[T]he plaintiff must have suffered an injury in fact," "there must be a 27 causal connection between the injury and the conduct complained of," and "it must 28 be likely … that the injury will be redressed by a favorable decision." Lujan v. Defs.

1 of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 560-61 (1992). The plaintiff, as the parties invoking
 2 federal jurisdiction, bear the burden of establishing these elements. Steel Co. v.
 3 Citizens for a Better Env't, 523 U.S. 83, 103 (1998).

4 Defendant contends that Fugnetti lacks standing because he "does not own"
 5 the copyright to the Flying Pigeon Image and has not properly registered § 411(a)
 6 and the recent Fourth Estate opinion. In this case however, the allegations in the 7 Complaint clearly establish that Fugnetti has standing to maintain his claim for 8 copyright infringement. Section 501(b) of the Copyright Act establishes who may 9 sue for infringement of a copyright, authorizing:

10 The legal or beneficial owner of an exclusive right under a copyright ... to 11 institute an action for any infringement of that particular right committed 12 while he or she is the owner of it.

13 17 U.S.C. § 501(b) (emphasis added); see also Russian Entm't Wholesale, Inc. v.
 14 Close-Up Intern., Inc., 482 F. App'x 602, 604 (2d Cir. 2012)("[T]he legal or 15 beneficial owner of an exclusive right under a copyright is entitled ... to institute an 16 action for any infringement of that particular right committed while he or she is the 17 owner of it." (emphasis in original)). It is black letter law that copyright protection 18 subsists from the moment the work is "fixed in any tangible medium of 19 expression." 17 U.S.C. §102(a). Registration is not a prerequisite to ownership of a 20 valid copyright. S.O.S., Inc. v. Payday, Inc., 886 F.2d 1081, 1085 (9th Cir. 1989).

21 In the Complaint, Fugnetti specifically alleges that he is "the owner and sole 22 rights holder to the Flying Pigeon Image." Complaint ¶9. Fugnetti's ownership of 23 the Flying Pigeon Image exists independently of whether Fugnetti has registered
 24 the Flying Pigeon Image with the Copyright Office. Taking the factual allegations
 25 in the Complaint to be true as the Court must, Thompson v. Davis, 295 F.3d 890, 26 895 (9th Cir. 2002), Fugnetti has sufficiently alleged that he is the legal owner of 27 the Flying Pigeon Image sufficient to have standing under § 501(b).

28 As to Defendant's "registration" argument, as explained in section II.b, 29 supra, Fugnetti has complied with the requirements of § 411(a) and Fourth Estate.

1 In any event, ownership in a copyright vests immediately upon creation and exists
 2 independently of the work's registration status. As such, whether Fugnetti complied
 3 with the registration requirement goes to the issue of whether Fugnetti satisfied the 4 statutory prerequisites for initiating a copyright infringement lawsuit not to the issue
 5 of whether Fugnetti has standing to bring the infringement suit in the first place.

6 Furthermore, Fugnetti has properly alleged that he has suffered an injury, that 7 there is a causal connection between the injury and conduct alleged and that the 8 injury will be redressed by a favorable decision. In the Complaint, Fugnetti alleges 9 that he has suffered injury because he is the sole copyright holder to the Flying 10 Pigeon Image, which has been registered as a trademark and incorporated into 11 numerous of Defendant's commercially sold products without his consent.
 12 Complaint ¶¶9, 37-38, 48-50, 57-58. Fugnetti also alleges a causal connection
 13 between his injury and the conduct complained of because Fugnetti did not 14 authorized Defendant to register the Flying Pigeon Image as a trademark or to 15 incorporate the Flying Pigeon Image into Defendant's commercial products.
 16 Complaint ¶¶56-58. Finally, Fugnetti has alleged that injury can be redressed
 17 through an award of damages, disgorgement of profits, and entry of an injunction.
 18 Complaint ¶¶62-64.

19 Therefore, Fugnetti has standing to assert his claim for copyright
 20 infringement.

21 b. Fugnetti has properly alleged the elements of copyright infringement 22 in his Complaint.

23 To state a claim for copyright infringement, Fugnetti must plausibly allege 24 two things: (1) that he owns a valid copyright in his photograph, and (2) that 25 Defendant copied protected aspects of the photo's expression. Rentmeester v. Nike,
 26 Inc., 883 F.3d 1111, 1116-17 (9th Cir. 2018); see also Feist Publications, Inc. v.
 27 Rural Telephone Service Co., 499 U.S. 340, 361 (1991).

28 In this case, Fugnetti has clearly stated a claim for copyright infringement. As

1 to the first element, Fugnetti has plausibly alleged that he is the sole rights holder to 2 the Flying Pigeon Image. Complaint ¶9. Further bolstering the plausibility of this
 3 claim, Fugnetti attached correspondence from Defendant admitting that Fugnetti
 4 took the Flying Pigeon Image and attempting to obtain the rights to the Flying
 5 Pigeon Image from him. See Complaint ¶¶20-26; Exhibits C-D, F.

6 As to the second element, Fugnetti has plausibly alleged that Defendant
 7 incorporated the Flying Pigeon Image into a number of commercial products
 8 without authorization, and that Defendant obtained a registered trademark over the 9 Flying Pigeon Image. See Complaint ¶¶36-38, 47-58; Exhibits G, J-K.

10 Oddly, Defendant argues that Fugnetti fails to provide sufficient notice of his 11 claim because he has not alleged that the infringement was “willful.” However, as 12 infringement is a strict liability offense, Fugnetti need not allege Defendant’s intent
 13 to infringe the copyright in order to properly plead a claim for copyright
 14 infringement. UMG Recordings, Inc. v. Disco Azteca Distributors, Inc., 446 F.
 15 Supp. 2d 1164, 1172 (E.D. Cal. 2006); see also Educational Testing Service v.
 16 Simon, 95 F.Supp.2d 1081, 1087 (C.D.Cal.1999) (copyright infringement “is a strict 17 liability tort”). Furthermore, a finding of “willfulness” is only relevant to the issue 18 of statutory damages. 17 U.S.C. § 504(C)(2)(“In a case where the copyright owner 19 sustains the burden of proving, and the court finds, that infringement was 20 committed willfully, the court in its discretion may increase the award of statutory 21 damages to a sum of not more than $150,000.”

22 As Fugnetti has plausibly stated a claim for copyright infringement
 23 Defendant’s Motion must be dismissed.

24 IV. IN THE ALTERNATIVE, FUGNETTI REQUESTS LEAVE TO 25 REFILE HIS COMPLAINT

26 If the Court is inclined to grant Defendant’s Motion, Fugnetti would request
 27 leave to refile his Complaint now that a perfected registration has been obtained.
 28 ///

1 V. CONCLUSION

2 Plaintiff Dennis Fugnetti respectfully requests that the Court deny Defendant
3 Bird B Gone Inc.'s Motion to Dismiss or, in the alternative, grant Fugnetti leave to 4 refile his Complaint.
